

Disability Awareness Program in a Physical Education Class

This presentation includes the activities of a physical education teacher who is interested in learning and needs to develop herself professionally, to raise awareness about disability in her class. In the presentation, the effects of an awareness program on middle school students' attitudes will be discussed. The effects of a four-month awareness program implemented in a physical education class on the attitudes and approaches of students without disabilities will be discussed on the basis of qualitative research results.
